PADUCAH, KY., TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 2, 1908

TEN CENTS PER WEEK

STATE PRESIDENT IS PLEASED WITH ARRANGEMENTS

Mrs. Riker Goes Over Program of Local Committee With Approval.

All Officers Will be Re-elected For Another Year.

CONTEST FOR NEXT MEETING

"Madame President"

With this parliamentary salutation the first business session of the State Federation of Women's clubs will be opened tomorrow at the Woman's club building, at 10:30 o'clock. The public is invited to all the business sessions, and the capacity of the building will be tested to accommodate the crowds, from the interest shown in the meeting all over the city.

Mrs. Letcher Riker, the federation president, expressed great pleasure at the thoroughly organized work of the local Woman's club, for the annual meeting. Last night and today Mrs. Riker, with Mrs. Haldon Hardin, the corresponding secretary, has been going over the plans with Mrs. James A. Rader, for entertaining the delegates, and all the arrangements for the meeting struck her as being unusually well planned. She was Mrs. Rader's guest last night, but today will go to the Palmer House, where all the members of the executive board will stay and hold their sessions.

Mrs. Lucia Boyd of Covington, first vice president, and Mrs. James Mitchell of Bowling Green, second vice president of the state federation, will arrive this afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, and the other state officers are expected at 6:10 o'clock this evening, when the majority of the delegates will arrive. Paducah has one state officer, Mrs. Edmund Post, the third vice president.

No Politics.
No politics will be played in this meeting of the federation. When a change in officers is made the meeting grows intensely interesting, but the keen rivalry for the honors, but the sense of this meeting seems to favor the re-election of all the present officers. The constitution allows two terms in succession, and Mrs. Riker with the other officers are just finishing their first term. It is customary to give the incumbents a second term.

In the selection of next year's meeting place, more interest will be shown. It is certain that this end of the state will not get it, or ask for it with any idea of success, but just what city in the middle or eastern section of the state will get fifteenth annual meeting is not ascertainable at present, though the delegates are coming prepared to work for their home cities. Louisville has not had a meeting in 10 years, nor Lexington in 5 years. No city has had the annual meeting twice since the federation was organized except Lexington, and next year's place of meeting may go to some city with a state membership that has never entertained the federation.

The Reception.
Looking up above everything else now, is the reception to the president and delegates by the Women's club, this evening, to which the six federated clubs and the husbands of members are invited. The decoration committee finished its work this afternoon and the refreshments committee was busy all day preparing the luncheon. The reception will begin at 8:30 o'clock. The receiving line will be selected from all the clubs in the city.

The Delegates.
Trains were met today by the depot reception committee and a number of the delegates arrived from the western and southern towns. The delegates expected to attend, most of whom will arrive at 6:10 o'clock, are: Mesdames B. Robinson, George Avery, Louis Seelbach, Morris Bell, Knapp, C. P. Weaver, Herman Menzel, H. P. Enly, B. Phillips, Thurston Ballard, McDowell, Fink, Whitesides, Ferguson, Curry, Trahan, Sample, Miss Caroline Leech, Fannie Ransom and Lilla Bred, all of Louisville; Mesdames W. B. Pryor, Desha Brockridge, Miss Laura Clay, Miss Adams, Miss Tenhune and Mrs. Virginia Moore, of Lexington; Dr. Charles

Republican Legislators Have to Vote For Democrat For Senator to Follow Instructions at Polls

Odd Situation in Oregon When Democratic Candidate at Popular Primary Defeated His Opponent.

Portland, Ore., June 2.—Incomplete returns indicate the election of George E. Chamberlain, Democrat, United States senator over Henry C. Calk, Republican, in the popular election yesterday. It makes a peculiar political situation. Republicans control the legislature, which must ratify the popular vote. It is expected that Senator Fulton, Republican, will re-enter the race, and try to induce the legislature to elect him.

REGISTER CREDITORS

Creditors of the Register News paper company are divided on the point of continuing the publication of the Register, as it is understood that the publication of the paper is a drain on the assets. An election of trustee of the estate will be held this afternoon by E. W. Bachy, referee in bankruptcy. Cecil Reed was appointed trustee by the state courts. His name is mentioned for election as trustee in the bankruptcy court as well as that of A. E. Boyd. It is understood that the creditors who are dissatisfied with the continued publication of the paper will favor the election of a trustee, who would close the plant. However, the order for discontinuing the publication of the paper must come from the judge, who must be convinced that it is for the creditors.

CONCRETE BRIDGE OVER CLARK'S RIVER WILL BE BUILT BY DIVIDING EXPENSE

Fiscal Court Will Make it Possible For People to Come to Paducah—Cost Reduced.

The fiscal court by almost unanimous vote decided to accept the proposition of citizens in the southwestern portion of the county to contribute $700 toward building a concrete bridge across Clark's river at Bryant's ford, and the road supervisor was instructed to buy material for the bridge. According to statements of citizens and officials who have investigated the proposition, the bridge when built will open up a large territory to Paducah that has heretofore been cut off during the winter season on account of it being impossible to ford the river. Magistrate Broadfoot, who advocated the appropriation, stated that the bridge has been needed for 30 years. Judge Lightfoot also favored the bridge, because of the statements of the citizens that a large number of farmers would be benefited and because of their public spirit in offering to donate a good portion of its cost, which he said was the first case on record.

In connection with the matter Road Supervisor Bert Johnson stated that the two concrete bridges now under construction would cost the county $2,100 only, which is quite a saving over the price paid a construction company last year to erect bridges of the same length and same material. The work this year is done entirely under supervision of the county.

committee to purchase a suitable plot of ground for a county cemetery and it is practically understood that five acres near the county sanitarium will be bought. It is the intention of the present court to beautify the ground and have it as well kept as any cemetery, public or private.

ROOSEVELT MUST BE INDORSED IN HEARTIEST TERMS

Taft Will Insist on Expression Approving Administration Policies.

He is in Favor of Revision of Tariff Schedules.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM TALK

Washington, June 2.—There will be no lukewarm indorsement of President Roosevelt and his policies in the Republican national platform, if the wishes of Secretary Taft and his friends have potency in the framing of that document. This much was made known after the first of a series of conferences to be held with the secretary of war on the subject of the platform.

Should the Chicago convention adopt a milkop platform and nominate Secretary Taft, it is predicted in authoritative circles that his letter or speech of acceptance will contain a pledge to carry out the Roosevelt policies already inaugurated and earnestly strive for them not enacted which will have a ring similar to that pronounced by President Roosevelt on taking the oath of office over the body of the dead McKinley.

Wade H. Ellis, attorney-general of Ohio, who has prospects of being the Ohio member of the resolutions committee of that convention and who was largely responsible for the conceded virility of the Ohio Republican platform, is here for a thorough understanding with the secretary of war.

Favors Tariff Revision.
He was with Mr. Taft at his offices for several hours, and at the Taft residence for a long time last night. Another conference is to be held tomorrow, when it is not unlikely the result will be brought to the attention of President Roosevelt.

Secretary Taft has made no secret of his position on the tariff. He is for revision at a special session of the Sixty-first congress to be called immediately after the inauguration, March 4, 1909. His ideas as to what the tariff should be, also are public property. The schedules should be drawn as near as possible to cover the difference between the lesser cost of production of a given article in foreign countries and the cost of production of that article in the United States. This he regards as "protection" in its true and fair sense.

Follow Ohio Platform.
Schedules which are fixed at a rate higher than this difference, he believes are not only unnecessary as means of protection, but are evil because of their temptation to capitalists to form monopolies and trusts in this country for the control of the market in this or that particular product.

From this information the prediction is declared to be a safe one that the tariff plank to be presented to the resolutions committee by the Taft adherents will follow closely the lines of the Ohio platform, with the added specifications regarding the manner of arriving at the amount of tariff which should be levied.

Mr. Ellis is known to be heartily in favor of a plank stipulating that amendments should be made to the Sherman anti-trust laws, and Secretary Taft is known to be a thorough believer in the efficiency of trust control through federal laws.

The Hepburn Bill.
The embodiment of these ideas into a plank which may take the form of an indorsement of the Hepburn bill, which died a peaceful death in the house judiciary committee, is said to be a safe prediction.

The conference will not be restricted as to personnel, and it is believed that before the Taft platform is finally perfected for submission the views of many of the party leaders will have been obtained.

EXCEPTIONS WILL BE FILED TO SALE OF BASKET PLANT

Real Estate Mortgage Bond Holders Like Old Apportionment Better.

It Will be Up to Judge Walter Evans to Decide.

WILL NOT START UP PLANT

Exceptions will be filed to the sale of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Manufacturing company Monday afternoon, to F. E. Lack, for $34,075. Some real estate mortgage bond holders are not satisfied with the apportionment of the purchase price to their holdings, which brought less in yesterday's sale than in the sale several weeks ago, when the plant was sold for $25,000 to J. A. Bauer.

In the sale that was set aside by Judge Walter Evans, Mr. Bauer apportioned his bid of $25,000 so that the real estate mortgage bondholders would receive the face value of their bonds, which was something over $16,000 with the interest, and the remainder went to the personal property bondholders, some $8,000. In yesterday's sale, Mr. Lack apportioned his bid so that the real estate first mortgage bonds will receive $15,144 and the second mortgage bonds will receive $18,930.

In the original appraisement the real estate was valued at $16,000 and the personality at $55,000.

Mr. Lack guaranteed to Judge Evans that another sale would bring over $30,000 and yesterday's sale brought $4,075 over that figure.

Some confusion exists about the bond issues of the company. Statements that the sale yesterday realized more for second mortgage bonds than for first mortgage bonds, are erroneous, as they are all first mortgage bonds and for each set of bonds separate property was pledged. Later a blanket mortgage of $250,000 was issued on the whole plant, but this was enjoined before much of it had been floated.

It is not known now whether Judge Evans will decide the case before he sails for Europe June 24. If he does not, it will be late in the fall before another sale can be held. Owing to the cost of a protracted receivership, it is probable that Judge Evans will give an immediate decision.

Local men, it is declared, have no intention of resuming operations.

VOLUME OF BILLS CAUSES PROBLEM FOR DEPARTMENT

Washington, June 2.—The new currency law has given the treasury department a problem how to store $500,000,000 in new bills. The law requires the bills for 7,000 banks to be kept on hand at Washington and in the nearest sub-treasury. It will keep the printing bureau busy all summer preparing the bills. It is expected it will be necessary to build vaults at St. Louis, Chicago, San Francisco, Boston, Cincinnati and New Orleans to care for the bills.

USES KNIFE

WHEN CONDUCTOR ON STREET CAR ASKS FOR HIS FAIR.

Kenny Morris, colored, Escapes After Vicious Attempt to Slay Crew on Rowlandtown Line.

After becoming angry because he was asked for his fare, Henry Morris, a young negro, drew a knife and made three slashes at Conductor Will Griffin late yesterday afternoon on a Rowlandtown street car. Two long slashes were made in Griffin's coat, but the knife just scratched his skin. The third slash was cut in the back of his neck, but it was not serious, and Griffin was able to be out on the streets today.

When trouble arose Motorman C. W. Crayne ran to Griffin's assistance, as Morris jumped off the car he made a sweep at Crayne's throat, which was grazed. The trouble occurred at Tenth and Boyd streets, and after leaving the car Morris ran away. The police are looking for him.

A Labor Helper.

The ladies of the families of Finnegan and Malone were exchanging views.

"Ah," said Mrs. Malone, "tis a benefactor to the race that my husband, Mick, is, as well as a jaynius."

"Precious little benefactor about tha, bebad," said the scornful comment. "Why, 'tis takin' the bread out av min's mouths that's what it is."

A Bismarck Story.

The following story of Bismarck may be new to some readers, says an exchange.

He was out shooting with a friend when the latter slipped into a bog and cried for help.

"I'm afraid I cannot help you unless I also die," said Bismarck, "and that would be no advantage to either of us. But rather than see you suffer a lingering death I will shoot you for love of heaven, or I may miss you."

With this he raised his gun to his shoulder and took steady aim. The sinking man was so horrified that he made one sudden and terrific effort and was free.

"There you are, my boy," said Bismarck, "you see you could get out alone. You have attempted your rescue would have meant suicide for me."

James, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reeder, of Bridge street, is seriously ill of stomach trouble.

Worse Than He Thought

A fine robust soldier, an Irishman, after serving Uncle Sam for some time became greatly reduced in weight, owing to exposure and scanty rations, until he was so weak he could hardly stand. Consequently he got leave of absence to go home and recuperate.

He arrived at his home station looking very much of a wreck. Just as he stepped off the train one of his old friends rushed up to him and said, "Well, well, Pat, I'm glad to see you're back from the front."

"Begorra, I know I was gettin' thin, but I niver thought that you could see that much," said Pat.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

How to Cure Constipation

Few people altogether escape a disorder of the bowels. You may catch cold, over-eat, over-drink, worry too much, not exercise enough or do a hundred and one other things that result in constipation or costiveness. When the trouble comes it is well to know what to do for it.

In the opinion of thousands there is no better cure for constipation than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which anyone can obtain for 50 cents or $1 at a drug store. We all have constipation occasionally, and the sensible thing to do is have a bottle of this remedy always in the house. You take it as quick as retiring, for example, and when you wake up in the morning at your usual hour it produces a healthy, regular, and pleasant movement. Your head clearer, your eyes brighter, you feel active and spry once again, your appetite is improved and you are ready to work with enthusiasm and vigor. All this may not have taken more than a dose or two, and a dose not to exceed two or three cents. Can you afford to feel bad when you can feel good for so little?

Dr. Wilson Brown, of Metropolis, Ill., has no hesitancy in saying that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the greatest of all laxatives and is frankly admits to his patients that if they used it when the stomach, liver or bowels got out of order they would have less need of him. It is without doubt the best cure for occasional or chronic constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, jaundice, sour stomach, lazy liver, flatulence, diarrhea, and similar digestive disorders. It is a thousand times better than salts or purgative waters, acts really but surely, is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe, and cures permanently.

Go to your druggist and get a 50 cent or $1 bottle and see if our claims are not justified.

FREE TEST Those wishing to try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, before buying, may have a sample bottle sent to their home by addressing the company. This will prove that the remedy will do as we claim and is only one of the many reasons why it is so popular. Send for it if you have any symptoms of stomach, liver or bowel disease. Gettest just most effective for chronic constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, jaundice, sour stomach, lazy liver, flatulence, diarrhea, and similar digestive disorders. It is a thousand times better than salts or purgative waters, acts really but surely, is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe, and cures permanently.

GIVE THE DUCKS A CHANCE

Alarming Decrease of These Wild Birds, in New England Especially.

Since the white man settled in New England he has exterminated, so far as that territory is concerned, five species of birds formerly found there. These are the wild pigeon, wild turkey, pinnated grouse, sandhill crane, and great auk. If the hunters of Massachusetts and Rhode Island are not restrained by law, the edible pond and river ducks will be added to those extinct species—at least, that is the prediction of Edward Howe Forbush of the National Association of Audubon Societies.

The shooting of these game birds in spring, which is permitted in the two states mentioned, is chiefly responsible for their alarming decrease in number, though Mr. Forbush would also prohibit killing them in January and February. The neighboring states and the Canadian provinces have laws forbidding spring shooting, which operate to the advantage of the gunners of the states which have not passed such protective measures. Wild fowl formerly bred in great numbers near the streams, ponds and marshes of New England, and would, undoubtedly, do so now if they were protected.

Even in a country so thickly settled as England, many thousands of wild ducks are still to be found in the fens and marshes. A bill has been introduced in the Massachusetts legislature forbidding the killing of ducks from Dec. 31 to Sept. 1. Some sportsmen say that the proposed closed season is unduly long, but there can be no serious question of the advisability of preventing the shooting of the birds in the pairing season. Sentiment aside, common business prudence should induce the lawmakers to enact a law which will preserve so valuable an asset as its game birds to the commonwealth.—Leslie's Weekly.

A Fable With a Moral.

There was once a Jester who was tired of his job, so he resolved to go to his August Master, who was his Master during the other months of the year also, and beg to be released, so that he could seek Fresh Fields and Pastures New. When the King and his Courtiers saw him approaching they began to titter; but the Jester went straight to the Throne and sank upon one knee.

"Sire," he said, "for many years I have capered and grimaced to amuse you, and now I fain would rest."

"He fain would rest!" repeated the Monarch, his sides shaking with mirth.

"Sire, I have a family in far-away Province—"

"Ho ho!" laughed the King. "Ha ha!" echoed the Courtiers. "He he!" giggled the Courtiers.

"And I beg of your majesty permission—"

"Isn't he the funniest thing!" said the King.

"To let me go and see them," finished the Jester.

The King was wiping his eyes, which were full of tears of merriment. "Take him away, somebody," he said, "or I shall die of laughing. He grows funnier every day."

Attendants surrounded the Jester and forced him kindly but firmly from the Royal Presence.

Inspiring a Meal.

Habit, not hunger, caused the attorney to enter a luncheonroom. He drummed the menu card indifferently, seeing upon it nothing to tempt his appetite. The waiter leaned heavily upon her jeweled fingers and asked:

"Your order, please?"

As the attorney lifted his eyes, he looked in amazement upon her wonderful coiffure. After studying for a moment the rolls, waves, puffs and kinks curls, he said, pleasantly:

"Sausage and noodles."

"What a crazy order," confided the giggling girl to the wondering cook.

IMPROVE FARMS

ROCKEFELLER HAS HIS AGENTS URGING CULTIVATION.

Diversification of Crops Figured on to Bring Prosperity to the South From the Ground Up.

New York, June 2.—Reports were submitted at a recent meeting of the general education board which revealed a class and quantity of work being done in the south under the direction of the board, with the almost unlimited means which John D. Rockefeller has placed at its disposal, almost wholly unsuspected by the public.

Few persons know that while the board recently appropriated $20,000 to pay college professors in the south to stir up interest in education and aid in the establishment of high schools, at the same time it appropriated $80,000 to pay the salaries and traveling expenses of agents to teach farmers of the southern states how to farm.

"This is our plan," said Dr. Wallace Buttrick, secretary of the board. We found that it didn't do much good to go into a community which was barely able to make enough to live on and tell the people they ought to tax themselves to raise money for better schools. They were simply unable to do so, and it was wasting time to try to make them do it. We saw that it was necessary first to make that community prosperous, to put money in the hands of the farmers and all the other things would follow.

Teaching the Farmer.

"Here is the first thing we did in the way of studying the problem. We found that to aid the south we must aid the country people, for eighty-five per cent. of the southern people live in the country. We selected a middle western state which was largely agricultural—Iowa, I believe—and calculated the average yearly earnings of a man on the farm. We found that it was about $1,600.

"In some of the southern states it was but $150. Why was this? The southern people have splendid soil, none better; they have splendid seasons, none better; they have an ideal climate, perhaps the best agricultural climate in the world; their staple crops, tobacco and cotton, find markets in every quarter of the globe. It was plain that the trouble was with the manner of farming.

"We saw what the department of agriculture did for the southern cotton grower in the way of education. By teaching the planter to plow in the fall and get his crop in early in the spring so that a good growth was obtained before the appearance of the boll weevil, this pest became practically harmless.

"In a year or two the planter's yield had increased 20 to 30 per cent. because of the superior manner which the government experts had taught him to cultivate his crop.

"We are now conducting, according to reports just submitted by Dr. S. A. Knapp, the director, 14,135 demonstration farms in the south. They are in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia. In these states are 77 agents and collaborators who are paid by the general education board.

CONFERENCE

OF METHODISTS CONCLUDES ITS OFFICIALS MAKING READY TO OBEY NEW LAW.

Change in Discipline Goes Into Effect June 1, 1900—Other Regulations Adopted.

Baltimore, June 2.—At the concluding session of the Methodist conference it was resolved that changes in discipline and course of study shall go into effect June 1, 1900.

The judiciary committee recommended that when charges of immoral conduct may be made against a missionary bishop between meetings of the general conference, the board of foreign missions shall appoint a committee to investigate the charges and report fully thereupon to the next general conference and that when the charges are sustained the committee may suspend the accused until the next meeting of the general conference.

Under the new rule adopted persons may be received into the church as soon as they are recommended by the official board or by class approval of the pastor.

While doing away with the old method, it also allows for a period of probation of any length that may be deemed necessary.

Among the important matters that fell of final action were the amendment question and the matter of a time limit on pastorate. Neither was permitted to come before the conference for discussion, hence the much talked of paragraph 24 stands as it was, stands without elimination of dandling and other words suggested in the Episcopal address, and pastors may be returned to their charge year after year, as has in recent years been customary.

The assignments of bishops include: Iowa conference, Bishop Quales; Black Hills, McIntyre; Central German, Neilsen; Central Illinois, Berry; Dakota, Wilson; Des Moines, Spellmeyer; Detroit, Erie; Michigan, Hamilton; Minnesota, North Dakota, Northern Minnesota, Northern Swedish and Norwegian, Danish, Wilson; Northwest Iowa and Western Swedish, Spellmeyer; Nebraska, McTear; Southern Illinois, Berry; Upper Iowa, Lewis.

TREASURY

Printing New Notes Will Commence Within Ten Days—Delivery About July 1.

Washington, June 2.—Treasury officials are making active preparations to carry into effect the new currency law enacted in the closing hours of congress.

Printing new notes will be begun within the next ten days.

The new notes will be identical with the national bank notes now in use except that the legend at the top of the face of the note "Secured by Bonds of the United States," will be changed to "Secured by Bonds of the United States or other Securities."

The comptroller of the currency now has in the vaults $203,000,000 of old notes belonging to various national banks and these will be used as required until the new notes are ready for issue.

It is expected that some of the new issue will be ready for delivery July 1. As soon as the department is ready to supply the new notes in any quantity required, no further issue of the present notes will be made, the present notes being destroyed as fast as they reach the treasury for redemption and new notes issued in their place.

Eczema is Now Curable.

A St. Louis chemist, after many years of careful experimenting and investigation, has discovered a simple remedy that has cured hundreds of cases of eczema that had been pronounced incurable. This chemist believed that eczema and all itching skin diseases were of local origin and were caused by germs which attacked and fed on the skin. He began to search for a remedy that would destroy these germs, and found that by combining the active principles of certain well known vegetable drugs, and applying them locally, the first application stopped the itching and burning, and if used persistently would drive all germs and their poisons to the surface of the skin and destroy them, leaving a nice, clear, healthy skin. He gave this remarkable remedy the suggestive name of Zemo, and since its introduction to the public Zemo has proved a very popular remedy and is today recognized the most successful and meritorious remedy ever produced for the relief and cure of eczema and all diseases of the skin and scalp.

Mr. Will J. Gilbert, the druggist, endorses and recommends Zemo and says that he believes Zemo to be an honest medicine and will do all that is claimed for it.

RECEPTION LAST NIGHT PLEASANT

Juniors Will Honor Seniors This Evening.

Graduates Will Get No Flowers, If Rule of School Board is Strictly Adhered To.

NO REHEARSALS AT KENTUCKY

Owing to the use of the Kentucky theater, the senior class of the High school will be prevented from rehearsing the commencement exercises until Thursday morning. Previously rehearsals have been held all commencement week. The faculty tried to make arrangements for rehearsing in the morning, but the lessee refused the permission. In the evening Professor Sugg tried to get the theater for an hour's practice, but the management refused to grant the permission unless $10 was paid for the rehearsal. Plans of the senior class have been upset, but rehearsals will be held on the High school stage until Thursday, when the day will be used for practicing the songs, and for practicing the essays.

Still persistent is the ruling of the school board that the graduates this year shall not have flowers on the stage. Trustee William T. Byrd, chairman of the committee on schools, has made arrangements for the decoration of the stage with flowers, and flowers sent to the theater for the graduates will not be received. The sweet girl graduates feel discouraged since the flowers can not be sent them, but wink and say, "How is the board going to prevent flowers from being handed over the footlights?"

Juniors Tonight.

Tonight the Junior class will entertain the seniors with a farewell reception at the High school. The class went out to the country this morning and gathered daisies and the class has decorated the hall prettily with the class colors, red and white of the A Junior and blue and gold of the B Junior.

Last Night's Reception.

The freshman and sophomore classes entertained last night at the High school in honor of the senior class. The hall was decorated with tissue paper streamers, daisies and pennants. The class colors of black and gold and black and orange were used effectively in the decorations. Cream and cake were served during the evening. An orchestra played during the evening. Besides the students many parents were present and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Examinations.

Examinations were held at all of the schools today and expressions from the teachers are that there will be few failures this semester.

James Russell Lowell said, "All deacons are good, but there are odds in deacons," and it may be added that there are odds in other varieties of men.

Squire Blank was not only the richest man in his village, but the sturdiest as well. Nothing gave him such keen delight as to get something for nothing. One day he and several of his neighbors had been in conference with a manufacturer who contemplated establishing a mill in the town. The conference was held in the one store of the village, and at its close the manufacturer stepped up to a showcase containing cigars and said:

"Have a cigar, gentlemen."

All the men selected a cigar except Squire Blank. He did not smoke. Therefore he said:

"Thank you, sir, but I don't smoke. But as the cigars are a dime apiece I'll take a dime's worth of mustard if you say so."

Of course the astonished gentleman said so, and the squire went home jubilant over "a hull half pound of mustard that never cost me a real cent."

An' there's Westminster 'abby, where they buried the good 'uns wot didn't get 'anged!"

For Thoughtful People.
Not only has there been no specific for chronic kidney disease, but physicians and pharmacists have had no treatment for inflammation of the kidneys.

In evidence of this let us quote from one of the latest authorities, James Tyson, M. D., Prof. of Medicine in the University of Penn. In his latest work (1904, page 156) he plainly says, as to curative measures to restore the kidney to its normal condition, "I BELIEVE THERE ARE NONE."

He further says the change from the first stage (the curative period) to the second or chronic stage (considered incurable) is probably established in all cases by the sixth month.

Fulton's Renal Compound is the first and only thing ever known that controls inflammation of the kidneys and arrests further destruction; and it has this effect in both stages of the disease.

How can thoughtful people afford to think of anything else at any stage of kidney trouble?

Due to a deplorable lack of knowledge as to the seriousness of kidney disease and a common disposition to treat it lightly kidney deaths have increased until they now reach 62,000 annually—over a hundred and seventy per day.

BRYAN'S FRIEND

DIES AT WASHINGTON AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS.

Former United States Senator James K. Jones and Former National Chairman.

Washington, June 2.—Former United States Senator James K. Jones, of Arkansas, aged 69, died here last evening after an illness of a few hours.

The immediate cause of his death was heart failure.

He was one of the leading Democrats in the senate from 1885 to 1903, and one of the strongest supporters of W. J. Bryan, having acted as chairman of the Democratic national committee and conducted the campaign of 1896 and 1900.

Senator Jones was a delegate to the national Democratic convention in 1896, which gave Bryan his first nomination, and as chairman of the committee on resolutions he reported the 16 to 1.

POINTERS FOR YOUNG MEN.

Little Things to Remember for Those Seeking Positions.

The young man accepting the first position finds that results are what count the most in the world of wage-earners, and that the young man who makes ready promises and does not keep them, will not be apt to be favored with an increase of salary when the personnel of the working force is gone over to see which of the men in the employ of the firm are giving efficient service and deserving of recognition.

The young man must make up his mind to accept his first position with one point in view—that he will work all the time he is on duty during business hours, and that he will not allow any portion of the work to be neglected. The small tasks, he will find, accumulate rapidly, which will make work outside of his regular hours a necessity.

A bad habit to fall into is to grumble all of the time that you are doing too much work for the salary paid. When a young man is hired by a business house it is a plain business proposition—the duties of the position are fully explained, and the employee agrees to do so much work each day for so much pay. If the young man agrees to accept the situation, he also agrees to do the amount of work that belongs to the position, and if he finds there is too much work for the pay, he has the privilege of seeking another situation, the same as the employer has to get another man to do the work if he learns that the young man cannot fill the position.—Spare Moments.

Impressive Statistics.

That wireless telegraphy is becoming a powerful factor in overseas communications is shown by statistics recently collected which give the number of stations at 1,550, classified approximately as follows:

Commercial land stations, 195; merchant vessels, 170; lighthouses, etc. (government stations), 150; naval installations, 67; military portable installations, 55; experimental stations, 310. These 1,550 stations had been erected by the various companies in approximately the following proportions: Telefunken, 41 per cent.; Marconi, 20 per cent.; De Forest, 6 per cent.; Lodge-Multhead, 3 per cent.; Federsen, 3 per cent.; other systems, 27 per cent. As regarded commercial land stations the proportions were: Marconi, 32 per cent.; other systems, 68 per cent. On merchant vessels: Marconi, 56 per cent.; other systems, 44 per cent.

A Stroke In Mechanical Engineering.

(Original.)

Joseph Bannon and Thomas Elrod were friends. Elrod was an educated man who never secured more than a competence. Bannon was a self-made man, a manufacturer, and got rich. Elrod's son Henry, as a boy, had a mechanical shop in his father's cellar and showed considerable aptitude for mathematics and mechanics. When his father died, leaving him nothing, Henry persuaded Mr. Bannon to give him a subordinate position in his works. Bannon, who considered both the boy and his father impracticable, took Henry into his service under protest, remarking that the boy would never get beyond the bottom round of the ladder. Henry did well enough till his employer caught him making love to his daughter, Mary Bannon, whereupon Mr. Bannon discharged him.

The morning Henry stepped out of the office building at the factory to hunt another job he saw a group of men, foremost among whom was Bannon, looking up at the great smoke stack. Joining them and inquiring what was the matter, he was informed that the stack was leaning to one side. Indeed, an engineer had just determined that at the top it was forty-five inches out of plumb.

Here was a serious matter. From all appearances a scaffolding must be erected about the stack, the stack must be taken down and another built in its place. Indeed, it would be fortunate if the chimney did not fall on the factory buildings beneath it, destroying them, with much valuable machinery. Bannon was very much troubled. His engineer told him there was no way by which the stack could be straightened, and before leaving the spot he gave orders for the erection of the scaffolding and the subsequent taking down of the chimney.

Elrod went away, trying to concentrate his mind upon getting another position. But the chimney, or, rather, some method of straightening it, had got into his head, and he could not get it out. He thought all day and toward evening took pencil and paper and began to figure. At midnight he went to bed, but could not sleep, so, getting up, he went over his figures to see that they were correct.

The next morning, after having slept only a couple of hours, he went to the Bannon works. Carpenters were just beginning to erect the scaffolding around the stack. Henry went into Mr. Bannon's office. Bannon, supposing that he had come to protest against his dismissal, frowned.

"Mr. Bannon," he said, "I don't think it necessary to take down the stack. I have a plan for straightening it."

Bannon looked at him as a general would look at a corporal who was about to inform him how to save his army.

"If you wish it, you are welcome to it," Henry added.

Still there was no word from Bannon. He was considering whether the young man had lost his senses.

"The base of the stack," continued Henry, who gathered confidence the moment he entered upon his plan, "being square, simplifies the problem. The stack leans to the east forty-five inches. I would remove ten and a half inches of brickwork at the base on the other three sides. I would insert in the spaces left blocks of wood of equal size, thus resting the three sides of the structure on the blocks. Between the blocks I would build brick piers six inches high, leaving a space four and a half inches between the tops of the piers and the bottom of the undermined brickwork. Now, if I can reduce the height of the blocks by four and a half inches the gap will be reduced by this amount and the stack will veer to the west forty-five inches at the arc described at the top where the radius (the chimney) is 122 feet."

Bannon's eyes were fixed on the speaker during this statement with growing interest. He had forgotten the lesser in the more important matter. He continued to stare for a few moments after Henry had finished, then asked:

"With the enormous weight (nearly 400 tons) on the blocks, you can't cut them down and get out the surplus. 'I have thought of that,' Henry replied. 'I will burn them out.'"

It seemed as if 400 tons had been taken off Bannon's mind.

"Where are your figures?" he asked. Henry produced them and waited while Bannon went over them again and again.

"Come," said the latter when he was satisfied; "you shall have charge of the work."

After the successful removal of the bricks and the insertion of the blocks Henry Elrod marked off the space to be burned out, set the blocks on fire and kept them burning evenly. If one burned faster than the others it was immediately checked till the others caught up with it. Thus they were kept burning uniformly while the stack slowly righted. Small fissures opened on the opposite side near the base, but steel wedges were driven into them, which maintained a solid mass. When evening came the work was finished, and the stack was as good as when it was first built.

Henry Elrod when at breakfast the next morning received a note from his late employer containing a check for $1,000 and offering him the position of superintendent of building and machinery at a handsome salary. Another note, written in a more delicate hand, came with the first, congratulating the young engineer on his triumph. Henry's wife now owns the factory, and Henry is its manager.

Night Riders Attack Olmstead, Ky.

Olmstead, Ky., June 2.—A band of night riders celebrated the early hours by burning a large tobacco factory of this place.

The property which was destroyed belonged to John Scott, a prominent tobacco buyer for the Italian regime trade.

Discharged Firearms.
The advent of the night riders was signaled by the firing of guns and pistols. Nobody offered any resistance and the few who peeped out of windows say they could not tell how many were in the gang or whether they were masked.

The riders applied the torch to the Scott building and it was burned to the ground. The loss is about $5,000 with $2,000 insurance.

Two years ago Scott was waited on in the day time by organization farmers, who requested him not to buy tobacco.

Two months later night riders called him from his home, and it is reported told him either to quit buying tobacco, leave the country or suffer death at their hands.

Sold His Home.

Scott sold his home and moved to Russellville. He placed his factory on the market, but was not able to sell it.

He rented the building to James Browder, an association prize. Browder had about finished his work for the season and shipped out all the tobacco.

There was nothing in the building when it burned except type samples and two carloads of fertilizer.

Mr. Scott has been one of the largest purchasers of association tobacco at Russellville.

WHITENESS WITNESS CHAIR IN POLICE COURT.

The big witness chair in the police court room is receiving a coat of white paint. Jailer Wade Brown has just finished the priming coat, and when it dries, enamel will be put on. On the back the word "Truth" will be painted. City Jailer Brown believes that the purity of the chair will be too much for even the hardened criminal and the sight of the chair will inspire him to tell the truth, though others think it not unusual for witnesses to turn their backs on the word of truth. It will be several days before the chair has died enough for use.

Runaway Colored Boy.
Ernest Clark, a colored boy 16 years old, was arrested last night by Patrolmen Owen and Elch at Eighth and Humboldt streets. The boy ran away from his home in Mounds, Ill., and the police were notified to keep a watch out for him. Clark's father came here this morning and took him back to his home.

Daily Thought.

"The tree will not only lie as it falls, but it will fall as it leans. What is your inclination?"

June, the month of roses, brides and sweet girl graduates, arrived, in a sulky mood.

Passing an ordinance, simply because it can be amended at any time is rather reckless.

The cry of protest at the billion dollar budget, is stifled by our $15,000 bite of federal pie.

Weather conditions indicate considerable agitation of the atmosphere in greater altitudes of the Rockies and the southern lake shore within the next few weeks.

That resolution of the American Medical society urging action against alleged medical schools, graduates of which average over twenty per cent of failures in practice, will have to be amended by affixing a formula by which to measure a failure. We can produce witnesses against any doctor in Paducah to prove he is a failure, and we can produce equally as many, who will conscientiously answer that his cures are a little short of miraculous. We know one thing, our family doctor is the best doctor that ever lived, and a mighty poor collector.

Contractors, preparing to lay concrete sidewalks on Broadway between Ninth and Eleventh streets, have torn up both sides of the street, compelling pedestrians to take to the middle of that much traveled thoroughfare for two busy blocks. Of course, it is too late to take action in regard to this particular job, but the city should not permit both sides of a street to be blocked at once. If the weather should stay nice and the contractors should build both sidewalks at once, the pedestrians might not be inconvenienced more than a week or so; but if it rains they will have to travel in the mud those two blocks, awaiting the convenience of the contractor to proceed with the work.

COAL OIL FIRES. INSURANCE. ETC.

It certainly seems outrageous to put such a beneficent institution as the Standard Oil company to extra expense in moving its plant, just because the city has grown up around it, hysterical insurance companies have put up the rates on surrounding property and citizens are getting nervous; and, forsooth, of what weight is the report of a fire chief and board of police and fire commissioners against the word of a corporation lawyer representing the oil company?

But perhaps, those property owners who are complaining of the presence of the oil tanks in their vicinity, think the expense to the oil company of moving its tanks a safe distance, will not be so great a hardship as the expense to them of rebuilding their property, and possibly burying their dead, in case any casualties attend a prospective fire. Should they wait until they see whether a fire is going to occur again before judging?

Elaborate precautions for the protection of surrounding property are demanded in the case of industries and structures necessarily erected in a thickly populated section of a city; such as engine houses, lighting plants, electrically wired buildings, etc., but industries and storage plants that are inherently dangerous and are not needed inside a city must be placed off to themselves, and no precautions that can be taken will absolutely remove the hazard of fire or explosion. Either through carelessness or the act of God. No other precaution will equal the precaution of isolation. Hazards may be minimized by steel construction in the case of oil and gasoline tanks, and by quarantine in the case of smallpox, but we build a pest house for the one, and we should isolate the other.

To compare tanks of oil and gasoline with an electric power plant, like the city's and the traction company's, is ridiculous, especially when the oil and gasoline have soaked the ground for years beside a railroad track with sparks flying almost every minute of the day and night.

The presence of just such things as the Standard Oil tanks increase insurance rates, increase fire losses and compel cities to spend more money annually for fire protection. Such a case as that presented by the Standard Oil company, which just recently had a serious fire, that moved the fire chief to expostulate against the continued presence of the tanks in the city, is so plainly one-sided, that it is unbecoming of the company to appear before the general council by attorney and protest against its removal. It looks as though the company does not care for the rights and interests of the people of Paducah, so it can be saved a little expense and inconvenience.

MR. WHEELER'S SPEECH.

The Louisville Evening Post, criticizes Hon. Charles K. Wheeler's Bryan club speech:

"Mr. Charles K. Wheeler addressed a Democratic club Saturday. He denounced the president, and in one breath declared that he was the most dangerous man who had been in the white house; in the next breath Mr. Wheeler insisted that the president had outgrown his policies from the Democratic party. Democratic orators ought to revise their speeches and commit them to memory verbatim. It does not make Democratic votes to denounce the president as a dangerous demagogue, and then to insist that his policies are the peculiar property of the Democratic party."

PLAN A NEW SOCIAL LIST.

Ward McAllister's "400" Will Be Cut to "300."

New York, June 2.—Under the direction of several leaders of society a new list of New Year's social elite is being prepared. It will reduce Ward McAllister's famous "four hundred" to about three hundred.

The new roster will afford some striking innovations. No person will appear upon it who does not make his home in the city at least five months of the year, and a family tree clearly traced back to the year 1700 is a requisite.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt will be the social leaders of the city, if the wishes of those in charge of the new movement are carried out.

BROADWAY IS REPAIRED BY STREET DEPARTMENT.

Bad places in the street on Broadway are being repaired today by the city street department. It was thought that these places could not be repaired without disturbing the drainage and level of the whole street, but the anticipated difficulty has been met by chipping off the bricks to the height and filling in the cracks with cement. Many hard joints will be eliminated from Broadway with the repairing of these sunken places.

High Water At St. Paul.

St. Paul, June 2.—The Mississippi river, which, during the last week, has risen four feet here, because of recent heavy rains, went up to 13.9 feet above the low water mark and is expected to touch 14 feet, the so-called "danger point," within a few hours.

Mrs. J. W. Pendley and daughters, Floy and Fannie, arrived home last night from Georgia, where the Misses Pendley have been attending school.

THE VANISHING FLEETS

By ROY NORTON

ILLUSTRATED BY A. WEIL

The premier of the dominion of Canada was asked in the interests of humanity to pass a communication to the soldiers on the border, asking for particulars of the destruction of the Japanese fleet. It was duly accepted and forwarded, and back came the reply:

"The United States has no report whatever to impart on the subject most vitally concerning his majesty's closest ally beyond the fact that the fleet which came to invade the Pacific coast has been duly met, properly vanquished and rendered incapable of further harm. The United States regrets that such action became necessary and with all due respect to Great Britain and such other powers as may be interested, wishes to express a disinclination to reply to any further communications of this or a similar nature."

A slap in the face could have caused no greater consternation. The very terms of the reply showed insolence toward all the world, and demanded explanation. But who dared attempt it? What country was brave enough to take the risk of meeting those terrible submarines, which were capable in a night of destroying the most complete flotilla that ever had been mobilized and sent away? If they only knew what form those monsters took, what dire warning they gave as they advanced to the attack, there might be some means of offsetting them or perhaps repelling them. That information, at any cost, must be gained. In its reaching out for anything which might suggest a way, the British ministry sent for Hillier.

Guy, sleepless and worn from nights and days of anxiety, responded to the call, listlessly wondering what further information he could give as to the situation in America, or what if any duty could be expected of him when the ministry itself was unable to accomplish anything.

He was ushered into the room where on several previous occasions he had answered questions, and found there the same men who had met him on the day of his arrival in London; but there was a different attitude this time, however, and the officials before him seemed anxious and ill at ease. Plainly they were ready for any suggestion he might offer, or any measure that might seem possible.

"Mr. Hillier," the lord of the admiralty began, "in all the time you were in Washington did any rumors or stories or information reach you regarding some new form of submarine boat projected, or being experimented with, by the United States government?"

At first, on impulse, he almost answered "No," but before his lips could formulate the monosyllable there suddenly returned to his memory several conversations he had had with Dr. Roberts on this subject, and also he recollected that in one of these talks Norma had participated. There was no reason so far as he could think why he should conceal this knowledge.

"Yes," he replied, "I do know something of the subject, but nothing tangible or of value. That which recurs to me is a conversation I had a few months ago with a scientific inventor who is a friend of mine."

"And his name, pray?"

"Dr. William Roberts."

Every man in the room gave a start and looked at his neighbor. The mention of the name seemed to have affected them. The prime minister repeated it as an exclamation. "That is the man," he said, "who is supposed to have gone insane, but who at one time, according to our secret reports, was working on some electrical discovery which might be utilized for an improved submarine. What do you know of it?"

"I know only this," he said, "that Dr. Roberts told me he believed it perfectly feasible so to use electricity through metal as to change its structure and at the same time lessen the resistance, or skin friction, through the water of a boat so constructed."

"Were you at the time discussing submarines?"

"Yes, we were. The subject arose through his describing certain experiments in which he and his daughter were then engaged. His contention was that a submarine could never be made totally effective unless it gained a speed so far beyond anything known that it could traverse great distances and maneuver with such rapidity that it would be practically immune from attack."

This then must be the solution! He read in the faces of his interrogators that they so accepted it. There was a chorus of questions which he could not answer. He admitted his lack of technical enlightenment, and also that he had no knowledge of the experiments. Nothing of a valuable nature had been given to him at the time of that or any other conversation. But he had made it certain in the minds of his superiors that though they might not know the secret of the submarines which had destroyed the Japanese fleet, they at least were aware what form of attack might be expected in case of war. In the nature of things it could afford no solace; but it might assist in obviating danger.

He listened to the discussion, and felt that he should be given leave to go, now that he had told all he knew; but he was again brought to the fore by a question.

"We understand you are personally on very pleasant and friendly terms with the president of the United States?"

"Yes, I think so."

"Do you believe that if you were in Washington you could gain an audience with him through his friendship and deliver into his own hands a message from our government?"

"Yes, if I was in Washington; but it now seems inaccessible."

The prime minister, to whom the others looked, reached over and picked up a paper knife with which he idly tapped on the table where lay a map. "Mr. Hillier," he said, "we are about to send you on a very important journey. We have selected you because of your thorough familiarity with the United States, your perfect knowledge of the Canadian border line, and your ability to talk personally to the president if he can be reached. We are not at war with the United States, and do not believe that vessels sent by us would be attacked unless war was declared. In the interests of the national dignity, however, we are compelled to make some kind of demonstration of strength off the American coast—this for the reassurance of our own people in Canada, if for no other purpose. We are going to send our most powerful fleet into Canadian waters, where it will be stationed until this war is at an end. You recognize the danger?"

Hillier sat thoughtfully for a moment and then said: "Yes, I think I do. You are afraid that if a great fleet was sent toward Canada it might be misinterpreted by the United States as a warlike move against her; there might be accidents; and then our vessels would disappear as completely as did those of Japan."

"You are right," the minister assented, and his companions nodded in approval. "Now, under those circumstances it is necessary for us to get word through, without any chance of miscarriage whatever, fully and clearly explaining to the United States that this demonstration is for the reassurance of Canada; that it has no intention of interfering with American affairs, and requesting that measures be taken to prevent its being attacked under misapprehension. If that message did miscarry or was delayed in its delivery to one sufficiently high in authority, the results might be fatal."

"And you wish me to make an attempt to deliver these advices?"

"Yes, because we have tried through other agencies and failed. This time there must be no failure, because the North Sea fleet is now being mobilized to its full strength, including the Dreadnought and her two sister ships, and will sail within a week after your departure. Do you think you can pass the lines?"

Guy's heart gave a great bound of satisfaction. Now he would have all the aid his government could give to penetrate the cordon and reach a place where he stood the best chance of finding Norma, or of learning where she was and what had happened to her and her father.

"No one can try harder, sir," he hastened to assert, "and I believe that if anyone can enter I can."

"As soon as you are ready."

"Then let it be to-night. One of our fastest dispatch boats, probably the Norfolk, will take you, and will land you wherever you deem it best to make the attempt. I suppose, however, you will endeavor to go through by way of Canada?"

He answered that such would be his intention, shook hands with them all, received his messages and left the chamber, his blood tingling with the excitement of action and elated because the call of duty was leading him back into the land where Norma lived and might be found.

In the chamber he left behind a group of men, who looked at each other and said: "He is the fourth man to try it; and is not only the best, but our last hope."

CHAPTER VIII.

The Lone Voyager.

A special train breaking records for speed swung shrieking into the archway of the Liverpool station, and Hillier, carrying nothing but light baggage, jumped out of his compartment and walked along the Queen's landing to the gangplank of the waiting Norfolk. Two men in sailor's uniform, who evidently had been posted for the purpose of keeping curious loungers away from the boat, halted him, and were joined almost on the instant by two officers in wait. Hillier recognized one as a personal friend. They shook hands, bowed to the ship, and almost before their feet were planted on the deck the landing stage was swung into the air and she proceeded to get under way.

It was plain to Hillier that no time was to be lost in this trans-Atlantic journey; for before the Norfolk had passed out of the river she was working under forced draught. He found himself the only passenger, and that instructions had been given placing the destination of the ship under his orders. That the government purposed to spare no expense or effort in assisting him to a successful conclusion of his mission was evident. He was tired of hearing of war, and felt a secret sense of satisfaction as day after day passed in respite from such news.

Out of the North sea, sluggishly rolling in the swells and floundering through the waves, gathered a fleet almost as powerful as that which had been mobilized by Japan. Other nearby stations sent in their quota of cruisers, torpedo-boat destroyers and swift-moving dispatch boats. Five of the world's greatest battle ships formed the heart of this apparently invincible gathering, which was to cross the ocean to a land of mystery, always facing the possibility of destruction by a terrible and unknown engine of warfare.

The people of England were much divided in opinion as to the advisability of the government's move when it became public. A strong conservative element feared the danger of Great Britain being involved in the war through this action, while the liberal partisans and jingoes asserted that it was the only method of upholding the country's dignity, demonstrating to America that England would do her best, and at the same time assuring Canada that the mother country intended to support her in case of attack along her border line. That Britannia still ruled the waves was generally doubted; for if the Americans had in their possession means of so easily overcoming a fleet as important as that which Japan had lost, there was almost a certainty that she could conquer any adversary sent against her on the water. It was no longer a question of warfare on land; for all the transports in the world would be powerless against such submarines as the nations now commanded the United States must possess.

Before sailing, the fleet commanders had been called into a council and given positive instructions that they were not to permit themselves to be drawn into action in any event before reaching Canada. On their arrival they were at once to cooperate with the dominion government in whatever way seemed advisable at that time, and follow such orders as might be given from London.

The clearance, however, unlike the sailing of that fleet from Japan, was not accompanied by any gala demonstration. It was rather with dire misgivings that the public witnessed this departure, which were to a certain extent shared in by those aboard the vessels; and it was fully realized that the flower of England's navy might never return from its voyage into an unknown danger.

The conservative press lent a funeral attitude to the occasion in its treatment of the situation, one journal declaring that "England is sending to magnificent martyrdom men who had better have been retained at home for their country's good." Another paper characterized it as a "useless sacrifice." This became the general public opinion within a few days, as reports from Canada continued gloomy and showed no prospect of a rift within the clouds.

The music halls, always an index to the popular view, found their greatest hits in topical songs which were generally of the tenor that the great, grand, glorious and gorgeous British tar had sailed away to do or die, with the accent on the "die." A general air of melancholy prevailed over all England, and as the days went on and the fleet itself got beyond reach of the wireless telegraph stations and far out on a deserted ocean, the sentiment was one of acute expectancy.

The admiralty was advised of the arrival without incident of Hillier, and apprised of the fact that he had decided to make his attempt to cross into the forbidden land unaided. There was a certain sense of satisfaction in the knowledge that a good and efficient man was on the ground with at least a chance for success in his endeavors.

This beatific state of mind was dispelled one bright afternoon, and England thrown into a future that scarcely could have been greater had one of the mysterious submarines appeared off its shores and begun bombarding the nearest city. It was like an intimation of disaster delivered in advance of more terrible news.

MONSTER CATFISH WAS CAUGHT IN ALLARD LAKE.

A catfish, weighing 68 pounds, 5 feet 7 1/2 inches in length, was the catch of Captain Breckenridge and George Riekstein in Allard lake this morning. The two men were out in a skiff fishing when the monster fish took hold of the hook and when Captain Breckenridge seized the fish to pull it in the boat, the fish flopped and Captain Breckenridge was thrown out of the boat. The captain scrambled back in the boat and then both men after a tussle of 20 minutes landed the fish. The fish was brought over to the Mecca saloon at Fourth street and Kentucky avenue where it was weighed and measured and is now on exhibition.

POLICE CHIEFS MEET.

Ways and Means of Dealing With Anarchists Leading Topic.

Detroit, Mich., June 2.—Ways and means of dealing with anarchists is to be the leading topic of discussion at the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, which is to begin its sessions in this city tomorrow. The subject is to be presented through a paper by Chief of Police George M. Shippy, of Chicago, whose life was attempted by an anarchist last March.

Headquarters for the convention were opened today at the Wayne hotel, where the business sessions will be held. The convention will be attended by the heads of the police departments of nearly all the large cities of the United States and Canada. Mayor Sylvester, chief of police of the District of Columbia, has been the president of the association for a number of years and will be the presiding officer at the convention. The city of Detroit has provided for automobile rides, boat excursions, theater parties and other forms of entertainment for the visiting chiefs.

THEATER

Clean Vaudeville.

Paducahans are to enjoy good vaudeville this summer, from indications at the beginning of the summer season, but the managers should adopt the Keith method and make their comedians recite their jokes and songs to them before appearing on the stage. Indecent allusions and vulgar songs and remarks are not funny to the respectable element to which local houses cater, and unless such things are cut out the houses will suffer.

At the Crystal.

The Crystal offers an excellent bill. Lova's, the slack wire expert, opens with a clever act, abounding in sensation.

Arthur Browling, the tramp monologist and dancer, was recalled repeatedly on his first appearance.

The sketch team puts on some rattling comedy. The pictures are good.

At the Casino.

Comedy, musical comedy, is the bill at the Wallace Park Casino this week. "Papa's Boy" was the opening bill. There are 18 people in the cast, and several novelties are introduced.

Manager Malone, of Wallace park, is negotiating with the management of the Hutton-Balley Stock company for a two weeks' engagement at the Casino, commencing next Monday. The Hutton-Balley company is said to be one of the best summer companies on the road this season, and it is to be hoped that arrangements may be completed so that Paducah people may have an opportunity to see them.

Expensive Talk

Probably the most expensive long distance telephone message ever sent from Paducah was late yesterday afternoon when a representative of the Mayfield Water and Light company talked for one hour and thirty minutes over the long distance telephone of the East Tennessee Telephone company. The bill for the message was $106.50, the largest ever paid to the local office for one message, and probably a record breaker. Machinery was ordered for the water and light plant of Mayfield, which was destroyed by fire several weeks ago. A stenographer was on the line, and she took down the order in short hand. Owing to the specifications of the machinery, it was a difficult message, but it was received correctly at the other end of the wire. The line ran from Mayfield to Paducah, where it was switched to St. Louis and from there to Indianapolis. From Indianapolis the wire went to Pittsburg and from there to Hazelton, where it was received. The line approximately was about 1,000 miles long. None of the officials in Paducah ever knew of a message sent over the long distance so long before. The message was difficult, as there were many figures, but on repeating the message it was found nearly correct.

To Protect Crops.

Lexington, Ky., June 2.—County Judge Bullock has been freely issuing licenses to men to act as special country patrolmen upon the application of reputable growers in the county. Dr. Samuel Halley and Halley Lisle have been named and they expect to raise good crops this year. Other farmers are following suit.

Three Working Rules.

Dr. Edward Everett Hale in his June page in Woman's Home Companion gives three working rules for conduct of life.

1. Live in the open air as much as you can.
2. Touch elbows with the rank and file.
3. Speak every day to some one whom you know to be your superior.

NEWS OF COURTS

In Circuit Court.

A suit for divorce was filed in circuit court by Dan Hall against Mary Hall. The couple were married February 15, 1901, and lived together until May 23, 1908, when they separated.

The American-German National bank was given a judgment for $324.04 against W. C. Stanford and J. S. Peal and property mortgaged to secure the debt ordered sold.

A large number of answers and motions to complete the record in civil suits were entered today and prospects are that the next term of court will be a busy one, as many cases will be ready for trial.

No Police Court.

For the first time in a month there was no police court. But two arrests have been made this month, and in each case the defendant was wanted out of the city. There are several cases pending in the court that are set for trial this week. The dullness has struck the police, and no matter how diligently they work they can find nothing.

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio from Evansville to Paducah will continue falling for several days. At Cairo slight change with a falling tendency during the next 24 to 36 hours.

The Tennessee from Florence to the mouth will continue falling during the next 36 hours.

The Mississippi from Chester to slightly above Cairo will continue rising during the next 36 hours reaching slightly over 28.9 feet at Cape Girardeau.

The Wabash at Mt. Carmel will continue falling.

The Largest Steer.

What is perhaps the largest steer ever slaughtered by Paducah butchers was killed yesterday afternoon by Seitz & Schmidt, butchers on the market. The steer was bought from Graves county near Mayfield, and weighed 1,770 pounds before killed. After being dressed and made ready for the market the steer weighed 974 pounds. The hide alone weighed 108 pounds. About 450 pounds will be the average net weight of a butchered steer, and it is rarely that the Paducah butchers get cattle weighing over 900 pounds. The steer was three years old and was a pet. It had every attention and walked into the slaughter house.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Miss Cullom's Success.

Miss Nannie Cullom, of Bowling Green, is the guest of Miss Mamie Baynham, librarian of the Carnegie public library. Miss Cullom was a teacher in the Paducah schools during the 1905-6 session, and taught both at the Washington and Franklin buildings. Miss Cullom is at present of the Greensburg High school, and has been re-elected next year. Under the principalship of Miss Cullom the school has had its most successful year. In addition to her duties as principal Miss Cullom occupies the chair of mathematics. The Greensburg Record says: "Greensburg has just closed one of the most successful and satisfactory school sessions that has been taught here for 20 years. The corps of teachers was selected with great care, and such teachers are not easily obtained in this day of educational progress. No time should be lost in securing their services for the fall term, as we are informed that some of them have had propositions from other places. We feel safe in saying that if it should be left to a vote of the patrons of the school that nine votes out of every ten would be cast for the present faculty."

Virdi Quartet.

Encores were frequent for the Virdi quartet of Chicago at the Eagles' building last night, before an appreciative audience of music lovers. Mr. Burns is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Harbourn, of North Third street, and has resided with them. He will return here to spend the summer, but has not decided where he will locate.

Cantata Wednesday Night.

Pleasing news to the state federation will be found in the announcement that the sacred cantata, "Victory Divine," will be the feature of the musical Wednesday evening at the Kentucky Avenue Presbyterian church. Arrangements could not be made to retain the Verdi quartet and this delightful cantata, which made so favorable an impression on an audience at the Woman's club last month, will be repeated for the benefit of the federation delegates and local club members. It is wonderfully convenient to do kitchen work on a stove that's ready at the instant wanted, and out of the way the moment you're done. Such a stove is the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. By using it you avoid the continuous overpowering heat of a coal fire and cook with comfort, even in dog-days. The is so constructed that it cannot add perceptibly to the heat of a room; the flame being directed up a retaining chimney to the stove top where it is needed for cooking. You can see that a stove sending out heat in but one direction would be preferable on a hot day to a stove radiating heat in all directions. EGYPT HUSTLERS AT BELLEVILLE

Will be Entertained There Friday and Saturday.

History of Organization and Plans of City to Amuse Thousands of Visitors.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS MEMBERS

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat contains the following account of the coming Egyptian Hustlers' convention:

Twenty-five hundred traveling men and their 25,000 friends of St. Louis and southern Illinois will next Thursday morning take charge of Belleville, and for three days and nights it will be all their own during the high carnival and sixth annual convention of the Egyptian Hustlers, to be held in that city Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Egyptian Hustlers is an organization of the members of the Travelers' Protective association, formed in 1903 for the purpose of meeting three days annually and holding a festival in furtherance of the spirit of fraternity and good fellowship. During these festivals all manner of novel contests are given, for which costly and useful prizes are offered by the wholesale houses and manufacturers.

It was at Anna, Ill., on April 2, 1903, that the Egyptian Hustlers had its conception and birth at the hands of a handful of traveling men, seven in number, whose territory comprised that part of southern Illinois known as Egypt. The original seven were J. O. Amos, Joseph Poupney, H. Henger, Albert C. Goeltz, H. C. Alexander, George W. Dekker and Tony Doherty, all of whom represented business houses of St. Louis.

The present officers are: Joseph Poupney, president; J. M. Mitchell, vice-president; Albert O. Goeltz, secretary, and J. E. Carroll, treasurer. These officers are in full charge of the sixth annual meeting at Belleville, and are being ably assisted by sixteen committees of the organization and the Belleville citizen's committee.

Belleville's Victory. Belleville inaugurated a substantial and powerful winning movement to land the Hustlers' meeting at the Olney convention in 1906, when Cairo came out victorious. A large delegation of Belleville Hustlers and other business men went to Olney with a band of fifty musicians and sowed there the seed which won for St. Clair county the 1908 convention in a most remarkable fight with Centralia. Both Belleville and Centralia sent special trains to Cairo carrying bands of music and 1200 business men, in an effort to win the convention this year. The vote for the next convention city was a tie on the first ballot between Centralia and Belleville. On the second ballot Belleville won by a majority of seven votes.

Ever since the Cairo convention the Hustlers and the Belleville business men and civic organizations have been working incessantly, night and day, for the greatest meeting ever held by traveling men in the central west. The result is a magnificent program of carnival events, with over two car loads of valuable prizes attached, valued at $10,000, and arrangements for the entertainment of fully 25,000 visitors. The prizes are the donations from wholesale houses and manufacturers of St. Louis, Chicago, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Louisville, Terre Haute, Evansville, Ind.; Belleville and numerous other cities.

Belleville business men contributed $10,000 in cash to the Hustlers' fund for the entertainment of the thousands who are expected to visit Belleville next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Special trains will be run from Centralia and Murphysboro to convey the boosters from those cities, who will be in the fight for the next convention. Other cities which will be in the contest are East St. Louis, Harrisburg, Metropolis and Effingham.

Next Thursday morning 300 Hustlers in white suits will parade from the Marquette hotel, at Eighteenth street and Washington avenue, to Eads bridge, headed by a band. Here they will take cars at 8 o'clock and go to East St. Louis, where they will be met by an East St. Louis delegation of the business men with a band of music and escorted to Belleville on special cars of the suburban. The delegation will be met on the public square at Belleville by a reception committee of 100 business men, and an address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Kern from the front steps of the courthouse, the keys to the city being delivered at that time to President Poupney, who will respond to the mayor's welcome. The Hustlers will then be escorted to their headquarters at Liederkranz Hall, register and be assigned to their places of entertainment.

Various Features of Session. Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the white suit parade will take place, in which it is expected that 2,000 Hustlers will be in line. The parade will end at League park, where the ball game between the Hustlers' team and the Belleville Merchants' team will take place, the principal prize being a solid silver loving cup. Thursday night there will be band concerts on the public square, pyro-

DRESS-MAKERS

The nervous strain through which dressmakers have to pass at certain seasons of the year seems almost beyond endurance, and frequently brings on nervous prostration, fainting spells, dizziness, sleeplessness and a general breaking down of the feminine system, until life seems altogether miserable.

For all overworked women there is one tried and true remedy. LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND restores the feminine system to a strong, healthy, normal condition.

Mrs. Ella Griffin, of Park St., Canton, N.Y., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I was troubled for three years with female weakness, backache, pains in my side, and headaches. I was most miserable and discouraged, for doctors gave me no relief. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought back my health and made me feel better than ever before."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

technies at the fair grounds, and a grand ball at Liederkranz Hall.

On Friday morning there will be a parade at 6 o'clock, followed by continuous concerts by massed bands on the public square and parades by the Hustlers to the fair grounds, where will open the two days' shooting tournament. At 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon there will be field day events at the fair grounds, and at 3:30 o'clock the flower parade, in which over 100 prettily decorated vehicles will take part. Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock will be held the King Pompey parade, the most gorgeous feature of the carnival. Following this at 8:30 o'clock the grand concert will begin at the Lytle theater. There will be over 250 voices and fifty musical instruments from the Kronthal Liedertafel, Liederkranz, Choral-Symphony, West Belleville Harmony and Philharmonic societies. At 9 o'clock the fancy costumes ball will begin with the grand march at Liederkranz hall.

The annual election of officers and selection of the next convention city will be held at the business meeting at the Lytle theater, Saturday at 8:30 a. m., and at 9:30 o'clock there will be a ladies' reception at Elks' hall. Meanwhile, there will be continuous concerts on the public square by the massed bands. The flower parade will be repeated at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the white suit delegation accompanying it. This will be followed by a ball game at League park between the champion Centralia White Sox and the Belleville Trolley league team for the championship of southern Illinois. These two teams will also play at League park Friday afternoon. The Hustlers' Marathon will close Saturday afternoon's program.

Saturday night there will be a grand concert by all of the combined visiting bands and the Belleville bands on the public square and a general carnival and battle of serpentine and confetti.

TOBACCO NEWS

Louisville, June 2.—The local leaf tobacco market continues dull and featureless. Only 422 hogsheds were put on the auction block this week. Italian Regle holdings were sampled to the extent of 925 hogsheds and Society of Equity holdings of old burley to the extent of 999 hogsheds, and these made the private sales fairly large. The sampling of the Equity tobacco indicates that considerable business is being done in pooled tobacco. It is estimated that of the intended crops 50 per cent. of the burley and 85 per cent. of the dark, including air-cured and Green River, have been set. All sections report the weather as very favorable for the crop and for planting.

New dark was offered to the extent of 196 hogsheds. Both air-cured and fired tobaccos averaged poor in quality and were in unsatisfactory condition. Fired or export grades of leaf and lugs in good condition sold readily at steady quotations, but the same grades in soft order ruled from 1/4c to 1/2c lower. Rehandling grades were somewhat neglected and values were off a bid or two. Manufacturing grades were in scant supply, but were readily absorbed at steady prices.

According to the monthly report of the Louisville Leaf Tobacco Exchange auction sales during May amounted to 2,065 hogsheds and private sales to 6,048, making the total 8,053, compared with 8,260 in May last year, 11,062 in 1906 and 9,586 in 1905. From January 1 to date sales totaled 72,932 hogsheds, against 67,892 last year and $6,514 in 1906. Of the May total 772 hogsheds were new burley, 2,453 old, 3,756 new dark and 1,073 old dark. Of the 1907 crop there have been sold in the local market 65,164 hogsheds, against 62,751 of the 1906 crop to this date last year and 85,313 of the 1905 crop to this date in 1906. Rejections for May were 22 per cent. of auction sales, against 14 last year and the year before.

Local stocks shrank 2,474 hogsheds during the month, receipts being 4,032 hogsheds and deliveries 6,506. In the same month last year receipts were 6,667 and deliveries 8,182. From January 1 to date receipts were 58,834 and deliveries 60,647. Stocks in the local market amount to 25,265 hogsheds, against 16,250 at the close of May last year, 12,115 in 1906 and 19,248 in 1905. Unsold stocks total 18,123 hogsheds, against 9,088 last year and 4,998 in 1906. Of present unsold stocks 10,527 hogsheds are Society of Equity burley, 1,671 fine burley, 3,892 Green River and 2,033 dark.

Hopkinsville Sales. Hopkinsville, Ky., June 2.—Good sales with firm prices marked the local tobacco market the past week. The demand was heavier than the previous week, resulting in increased sales, though not so much as have been sold at other times during the season. Considerably over 200 hogsheds were disposed of.

The Planters' Protective association sold 192 hogsheds at prices in full accord with the schedule adopted by the organization. As the season advances the buyers spend more time at the salesroom and keep in close touch with what is on hand in anticipation of any orders which they may receive. Receipts amounted to 194 hogsheds for the week, or 6,003 for the season. The bulk of the tobacco has been delivered and receipts from now on will grow lighter rapidly. The sales last week make the total for the season about 2,000, or one-third of the receipts.

With the Society of Equity business was good at prices ranging from $7 to $10 for lugs and $10 to $14 for leaf, the actual number of hogsheds sold not being reported.

Reports from the Planters' Protective association show that tobacco all over the district is moving steadily, with frequent big sales. Prices are uniform in accordance with the schedule and are satisfactory to every member.

Smith & Scott Buy. The Smith & Scott Tobacco company purchased 20 hogsheds of leaf tobacco at the association salesroom yesterday paying from 10 1/2 to 12 cents for the tobacco. The warehousemen sample the tobacco sold daily and a continual stream of checks is being sent out from Paducah to the farmers whose tobacco is sold on the local market.

HACK LAW VETO IS MADE OF NO AVAIL

Because Councilmen Say It Can be Amended.

Also Order an Ordinance Permitting Saloon Keepers to Transfer Their Licenses.

STANDARD OIL CO.'S MENACE

Mayor James P. Smith's veto to the city hack ordinance availed nothing at the council meeting last night. The ordinance was given its final passage over his veto by a vote of 10 to 2, those voting "yea" were Councilmen Lindsey, Bowers, Cornelson, Foreman, Ford, Krentzer, Lackey, Van Meter, Wilson and Young; those voting "nay" were Duval and Mayer.

City Solicitor James Campbell emphasized and explained the mayor's reasons for vetoing the ordinance. It now stands. The mayor's objections were that the price of $4 for funeral cabs whether they were to go one square or one mile could be regulated by an amendment to the original ordinance. Another objection was that a cab driver if he was hailed on the street and asked to take someone home or any place he wished to go, the cabman could say he had to report at headquarters, as were his previous instructions, and in that way could avoid hauling the person. He also objected to the clause stating that no trunk could be hauled on the cab. That is unfair to the man that has only his cab and no transfer wagon, since nearly every one who gets off the train has baggage and it would give the transfer companies a practical monopoly of the business to the exclusion of the single cab.

The city solicitor explained these points in detail. Councilman Bowers said the ordinance may be amended at any time the general council deems it necessary. President Lindsey also said if the ordinance was not satisfactory it may be amended R. L. Palmer of the Palmer Transfer company attempted to answer all of the mayor's objections to the ordinance. In reply to the charging of $4 for cabs for funeral purposes, Mr. Palmer stated that the cabs used at the present time are worth three times as much as the cabs used when the ordinance now in force fixing the sum at $2.50 per cab for funerals, and that horse food and labor are much higher in price.

In answer to the hailing of cabs as they were going along the street, Mr. Palmer stated that it was a system that had to be used in order that the cab owners could get satisfaction and could give satisfaction to the public. For the headquarters must know at all times where the cabs are. In regard to carrying trunks on the cabs Mr. Palmer said it is dangerous to those traveling in the cabs and that other parties have licenses to haul trunks. It would be interfering with their business to take trunks on the cab.

Oil Plant Dangerous. To oust the Standard Oil company from the residence section of the city was discussed. Communications from Fire Chief James Wood, fire and police commissioners and from 25 residents of the vicinity of Tenth and Monroe streets, where the Standard Oil plant is located, were presented to the council. Attorney Campbell Flourboy spoke in behalf of the Standard Oil company and he asked that the council give this matter due consideration and not act hastily or on the impulse of the moment, as it would mean a great expense to the company to have to move its tanks and stock to some remote part of the city and put up a new building. Mr. Flourboy stated that there is no possible chance for the tanks to explode or catch on fire, as they are a safe distance from all buildings in their present location and that the building, a frame shed, that burned last week would be rebuilt of fireproof material. The matter was referred to the city solicitor and the ordinance committee.

Fire Chief Wood reported that the building, 123 Broadway, owned by W. O. Bailey, of Louisville, is unsafe and should either be repaired or torn down. The mayor was authorized to notify the owner or agent of the building of the request of the fire chief.

The report of Fire Chief Wood for the month of May was received and filed. The report of Chief of Police James Collins was received and filed, for the month of May, showing collection of $479.50, repaid $113. on hand $65.

The city treasurer and auditor's report, showing $6,902.28 in the treasury, was received and filed. Accounts of the city were allowed for the amount of $18,856.17. The ordinance, prohibiting the use of wells and cisterns, for drinking purposes, was killed. It required that all wells and cisterns should be filled up and not any water from them used for drinking purposes, as it was a medium for disease. The ordinance was given the first passage and was lost on the second vote, as it required two-thirds to carry. The vote was 7 yeas and 5 nays.

Sidewalks. New sidewalk ordinances were numerous. Paducah will be much improved if all the ordinances carry through both boards. An ordinance for the construction of granite sidewalk with combined curb and gutter on both sides of Fourth street between the bridge at Island creek and Broad street and on both sides of Meyers street between Farley Place and Island creek. This ordinance was given first and second passage.

For granite sidewalks with combined curb and gutter on both sides of Fifteenth street between Clay and Trimble streets was given first and second passage.

On the east side of First street between Broadway and Washington street an ordinance for a sidewalk 12 feet wide was given first and second passage to be constructed of brick. An ordinance for the grading and graveling of Farley street between Meyers and Clements streets was given first and second passage. The city engineer was authorized to use the dirt from Farley Place to be used in constructing the sidewalks on both sides of Farley Place.

W. A. Wells was granted a saloon license at 105 South Second street, where a saloon had been running. The motion of Alderman Oehlenschlaeger was concurred in asking that the ordinance committee bring in an ordinance granting a lawful transfer of saloon license.

D. A. R. Fountain. The D. A. R. presented a letter to the council stating that they were prepared to put in the public drinking fountain at Fifth street and Broadway at cost of $1,500 to the D. A. R., and that it was to be made of Georgia marble or granite, standing 15 feet high. The council agreed to the request. Mr. Eli Boone thanked the council in behalf of the D. A. R. for the grant.

The question of bringing condemnation proceedings against the property not dedicated for a street from Broad street to the Mayfield road was referred to the street committee for investigation.

A remonstrance was read from the property owners abutting the alley between Second and Third streets, stating that the alley had been paved with stone and that the stone would do for the repairing of the alley instead of using brick at the expense of the property owners on the alley. The remonstrance was received and filed.

The mayor was authorized to borrow $1,000 to meet the expense of the city in anticipation of taxes to be collected.

Mr. T. J. Stahl asked that the city for cuts, sprains, bruises, rheumatism and all other pains, use McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment. First sold in 1862, still the same effective remedy in 1908. Good for man or beast. 25c, 50c and $1.00.

MUSTER ROLL

LACKING AND HALF COMPANY FAILED TO APPEAR.

List of Petitioners for Local Military Company Will Be Secured for Headquarters.

Because not enough men were present to muster in a company of the state militia, another list will be gotten up and another request made to the adjutant general to send a mustering officer. Captain A. G. Chapman received the names of 22 men last night, but 40 names form a company, and he returned to Hopkinsville early this morning. The original petition had 53 names; but a copy was not kept, and yesterday it was impossible to notify the men to come to the city hall last night and be mustered in.

A letter has been written to the adjutant general, asking for a copy of the original petition. The names will be secured again and another day set for the mustering in of the company. If Captain Chapman could have remained over until today it is certain that the remainder of the company could have been secured.

The local men who have taken the lead in the organization of the company are not discouraged, as they realize the failure came out of the applicants failing to learn that Captain Chapman would be in the city. Following Captain Chapman's advice the organizers of the company will have a man to look after a squad of men and notify them when the enlistment will be held. No election of officers could be held last night, as this must be done after the company has been mustered in.

A Qualification.

Congressman John Sharp Williams tells a "new" story. During the recent Mississippi gubernatorial campaign the Hon. Jeff Truitt was one of the unsuccessful aspirants for the majority suffrage of his fellow citizens. Prohibition doctrines figured in the struggle, and seemed important to a Methodist minister.

"Brother Truitt," said the minister, "I want to ask you a question. Do you ever take a drink of whisky?" "Before I answer that," responded the wary Brother Truitt, "I want to know whether it is an inquiry or an invitation."

CATARRH A SERIOUS FAR-REACHING BLOOD DISORDER

Even in its early stages Catarrh is almost intolerable, caused by the stuffy feeling in the nose, the buzzing noises in the ears, the continual "hawking and spitting," difficult breathing, etc. But when the blood becomes thoroughly polluted from the catarrhal matter, the inflammation extends to the bronchial tubes, causing hoarseness, and often an aggravating cough; the stomach is affected, resulting in dyspepsia, loss of appetite and strength, and gradually all the mucous membranes of the body become diseased and the system upset and deranged. Frequently the kidneys and bladder are attacked, and the constant passage of impure blood through the lungs, diseases these important members, and Catarrh terminates in Consumption. Catarrh is a deep-seated blood disease, and must be treated constitutionally, for it is beyond the reach of local treatment. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all the impure catarrhal matter and at the same time building up the entire system. It goes down and attacks the disease at its head, in the circulation, and removes every trace of the impurity that is causing the trouble. Then as rich, pure blood circulates through the body, the inflamed membranes commence to heal, the mucous discharges grow less and finally cease, and all the disagreeable and disgusting symptoms of Catarrh disappear. S. S. S. has no equal as a cure for this disease. It refines and purifies the entire circulation and repairs the damage done by Catarrh. Special book on Catarrh and any medical advice free. The tales of woe commenced yesterday.

"I heard that Miss — turned in five dollars more than I did Saturday. Of course I am a dead game sport, but I can't stay against a handicap like that." Such were the words of one candidate who came into The Sun office with a face as long as her arm and a trouble story
as long as Kentucky.

The contest man, gently, without laughing, attempted to explain that there were five weeks left in the contest and that the troubled one would stand all the chance in the world if she staid in the game and got busy.

"How long did you work Saturday?" finally asked the contest man.

"Oh, about an hour," admitted the fair candidate, and then she suddenly remembered something. "Oh, if I had gotten that two-year subscription Mr. X— promised me I would have been way ahead of Miss — wouldn't I? Then she would have been behind me. Oh, goodie, I'm going to stay in."

And on such little things as that hangs the fate of candidates. They're in and they're out, generally for reasons purely temperamental.

This race will not go to the one who gets ahead for a day and then lets up on effort for another day. It goes to the ones who stay everlastingly at it.

But the Wise Ones.

But the wise ones have forgotten about the bonus offer of last week and are going after the special prize and bonus offer of this week. That's the only thing to think about in a contest—the future. There are some folks who go moping about the world living in a past as dead as they are.
Then there are other folks who are continually turning the brightest possibilities of a rosy future into the enjoyable realities of a busy present.
The latter kind make the "candy candidates" of a contest.

Voting Limit.

Until June 6 no candidate will be allowed to cast more than 5,000 certified votes in any one day.

The Paducah Sun's Great Popularity Contest began with the official announcement on May 23 and will close on the great national holiday
July 4. That makes exactly six weeks.
There will be no extension of the time of the contest. When it's over it's over, and the happy, lucky ones will be lugging home deeds for real estate, orders for fine furniture and jewels and a bunch of other things.

Who Are Eligible?

Any white person, man or woman,
of good character, residing in the territory covered by The Sun may become a candidate for the honors and the prizes in The Paducah Sun's Greatest Popularity Contest.

Duration—Awards.

The contest starts with today's announcement and will continue till July 4, at 9 p. m., at which time a committee of well-known and trustworthy citizens will be chosen to determine who are entitled to the prizes.

More Than $2,000 in Prizes.

Following is a description of the magnificent list of prizes offered for the winners in this contest together with the arrangement governing their distribution.

number of votes, regardless of district, will be given The First Grand Prize, a $700 double building lot in Gregory Heights, Paducah's prettiest suburb.

The candidate securing the second highest number of votes, regardless of district, will be given The Second Grand Prize, a $100.00 two-carat, blue-white diamond, on display at Jo Wolff's jewelry store, 327 Broadway.

After the judges of the finish of the contest have awarded the Grand Prizes, the names of the two winners will be stricken from the list of contestants and the nine district prizes will be awarded as follows:

The three persons who lead their respective districts will be awarded of Paducah north of Broadway, including the north side of Broadway.

at J. L. Wanner's, 311 Broadway.

Table of Values.

printed daily in The Sun and which are good for the number of votes printed on them if voted before the time limit stated, contestants may secure subscription votes according to the following schedule:

Contestants may secure subscriptions anywhere they wish. For instance a candidate in District 3 is entitled to turn in subscriptions from District 2 or District 1, and vice versa.

New subscribers are those who were not taking The Sun May 23, the date of the start of the contest. Transfer from one member of a family to another or to someone else living in the same house will not be counted as a new subscription.

CAR BUILDERS

HAVE PLENTY OF WORK AND TEN MEN ARE ADDED.

New Secretary for Illinois Central Hospital Elected to Succeed Dr.
Earle, Who Resigned.

Work is steadily increasing in the car repairing department at the railroad shops caused by the great increase in freight traffic handled by the road. Ten men were added to the force yesterday and more will be added from time to time as they are needed. It is expected that the number of men employed will be up to the average before the fall season begins.
Master Car Builder Baughman has returned from Hot Springs much improved in health and has assumed charge of the work again.

It has been decided to wait until the summer months before installing the additional furnace and bath apparatus at the railroad hospital, as it was considered unwise to tear up the plumbing until the weather became more settled. The new elevator will not be installed for several weeks.

New Secretary.

Dr. J. Q. Taylor has been elected secretary of the hospital board to succeed Dr. E. R. Earle, who resigned as interne to take up regular practice in the city.

Interested in Contest.

The employees of the car repairing department are very much interested in the race of Fred McCreary in The Sun's popularity contest and are rallying to his support, and he will be much in the game before the polls close.

HOUSEBREAKING

CHARGE PREFERRED AGAINST BILL BINGHAM, COLORED.

Detective Will Baker Arrests Him
for Huntington, Tenn., Officers.

Detective Will Baker arrested Bill Bingham, colored, this morning on a charge of housebreaking. He was wounded by the police at Huntington,
Tenn., and they will send for him
Bingham has been working at the Rubber Grip handle factory, and after receiving the tip that Bingham was in the city, Detective Baker began work quietly on the clue. A decoy postal card did the work, and Bingham was approached when the detective appeared him in the guise of a census enumerator.

Spring Guns and Murder.

A King county court convicted a man who set a spring gun in his trunk, which killed the landlady, of murder in the second degree. Malice was not proved, and the supreme court has just reversed the lower court and directed a new and fair trial. The case presents curious questions of law. It seems that the curiosity of the woman was the cause of her death. It is a warning to all to keep out of other people's trunks.
Still, a man who sets a trap gun in his trunk should not go acquitted in such a case. Suppose the owner of the trunk left the city or died and it became lawful to open his trunk. It is a most dangerous method of protecting property.—Baltimore News.

His Preference.

When the largest firm of wine merchants in London first started they sent Lord Derby a dozen of sherry, which they represented as being a specific for gout, to which the Prime Minister was a martyr. The Lord of Knowledge replied: "The Earl of Derby presents his compliments to Messrs G.; he has tasted
the sherry and prefers the gout."

Saving Gas Bills.
The Good Thing was discovered in the back yard kicking himself.
"Why this strenuous?" asked one of his neighbors.
"Last week I sent a dollar in answer to an advertisement offering a method of saving gas bills," answered the G. T. "and I just received the information."
"Well," queried the neighbor.
"It was in the form of a printed slip directing me to paste them in a certain book," replied the victim as he bowed himself for another kick.
